County Seventh Grade Students Tour Jamest

By Sandra Trent

I don't think that anyone in the whole world who visits Jamestown could have enjoyed it more than the seventh grades of Appomattox County. It seemed almost like a dream to me, and I still don't believe that it could have happened.

First in my dream, I see our buses leaving for the Enchanted World of Jamestown and Williamsburg, at 6:00 A. M., on Friday, April 12, 1957. As our buses are traveling down the Historic Highway, I seem to have a dream within a dream, about wonderful Williamsburg and Jamestown, where our country actually began in 1607.

After we arrived at Williamsburg, the first thing we saw was the Jail, where all sorts of law breakers were kept, and we saw the stocks where even more severe criminals were left to die. Many of us had the privilege of getting into them and getting our picture taken.

From the Jail we went to the Capital, the second capitol of Virginia. This is where the government of Virginia had its real beginning. We then had the opportunity of standing in the room where the House of Burgess met in 1619.

Then from the Capitol we went to the "Governor's Palace." Here we had the opportunity of seeing where the first governors of Virginia actually lived. First we saw the Ladies Parlor, where the ladies entertained their guests. Then we saw the "Family Dining Room," where the family ate and sometimes entertained their guests. Then we moved on to the enchanted "Ball Room." This is the most beautiful room in the palace. Its chandeliers, looked almost like icicles frozen into beautiful designs. As we walked through this beautiful room we could hear the beautiful music of the harpsichord which they used to dance by.

In the magnificant flower gardens of the Palace, plots of ground green with grass were enclosed with the beautiful old English boxwood. Flower beds with tulips of variety of colors were enclosed with these boxwood. In passing over these grounds you felt as if you were in fairy land.

We ate lunch in the picnic grounds behind the Williamsburg Lodge, which consisted of that good old fried chicken, country ham sandwiches, drinks, pickles, cokes, and ice cream.

Now as we took the short drive to Jamestown, we could seem to swipe that first brought settlers to Virginia. There is the largest, the Susan Constant, the next largest, the Godspeed, and the smallest, the Discovery. We had the privilege of going on The Godspeed, the second largest ship.

Third, we come to the New World and Old World Pavilion. This was very exciting, with the lifelike statues of Queen Elizabeth and many other famous Englanders.

Next we come to the Glass House, the first factory in Virginia. The reason it was built, was that the Colony wan't doing too well and they decided to build a factory so they could maybe raise more money, by selling the glass to England. We had the wonderful opportunity of seeing the ruins of the Old Glass House, and we also saw some men making glass in a replica of the old one.

We concluded our tour with a visit to the Historic Fort. Here we had guides dressed in costumes of that time, who told us about life when the settlers first came to Virginia. The houses were built of nothing but sticks woven together and mud was put in between the cracks to protect it from weather. The church was also interesting, with its English tradition.

I think that our school group had a very exciting and interesting tour. I also think that actually seeing this settlement will give us much more information toward our study of Virginia. For we all know the old saying, "Seeing is believing."

But we cannot conclude our story without paying tribute to the considerate and patient bus drivers. I think that they made our trip seem more interesting.

I must close my story by saying that all of us agreed that this was the most pleasant trip we have ever taken.

TRAVELING SUITCASE

Austin, Minn.- When Ann Michelson, 16, goes abroad this summer, she will carry a suitcase that, two years ago carried the belongings of Thea Miller, another high school student, to Finland. Last summer Miss Miller loaned the suitcase to another friend, who went to the Netherlands.

The Marine Corps announced a reorganization p an for atomic warfare by which it would be able to put assault troops on any beach in the world by plane and helicopter.

U. S. grants $1,700,000 for mental health work.

Graduations of new teachers to rise again by 10 per cent.

United States Ambassador Bohlen has left the Soviet Union after four years in the post.

Health and Beauty

During an interview with a mother of six children, some very interesting facts came out. This mother, a pretty woman in her middle forties, could easily pass for a woman of thirty-one or two. Her figure was like that of a young girl. Her skin was bright and clear and so were her eyes.

According to her, it is not difficult to stay youthful and attractive-looking if you start soon enough to keep your stomach muscles tight and work to keep off excess weight. If you are overweight now — start right away to do something about it.

This particular lady did not believe in a great deal of make-up. It doesn't disguise fatigue, so getting enough rest is a must. Trying to operate on too little rest not only takes a great toll on your physical appearance but will spoil even the sweetest disposition.

Many doctors agree that no very important decisions should be made if you haven't had sufficient rest. Crankiness, too, is an all-important factor to this busy mother. She stated that she often took two and, during the summer, sometime three showers a day.

She went on to say that she believes it is very important to look attractive and neat for her family. She has lots of cottons, they are inexpensive to buy and to care for, so she can always look fresh—even during housework.

The care she gives her complexion is simple and based on complete cleanliness. She removes all make-up with a light, non-greasy lotion. Next comes a cleansing with soap and water. She believes it is important to be gentle, when cleaning your face because hard rubbing will cause muscles to sag.

She thinks a moderate amount of sun is a tonic for the skin and the hair, as well.

The last tip, and the all-important one, is to live a serene life, filled with wholesome pursuits. Too much night life and the accompanying drinking is bad for a person physically and mentally. Moderation in all phases of life is a good rule.

In FASHION now

As always, flowers are a favorite decoration for spring hats. The new "Fair Lady" look fits in perfectly with the flower hats. All shapes are used as a basis, from little sailors and bretons to big-brimmed hats or deep cloches.

Italian straw has really come into its own. This straw is unusually strong but look as if a strong wind would blow it away. It will keep its shape through many seasons of wear with simple care. It is famous for taking and holding color. The favorite shade, however, seems to be natural.

The many American nubby straws are in demand all over the world. Hats in this straw are found in all prices ranges, thanks to American know-how.

A new name for the old, ever-popular wide shiny straw is candy-straw. Black, brown, white and all the colors of the rainbow are on the market. The black candy straws are particularly striking when worn with patent shoes and bag.

Souffle straw was new last spring and is still very much in fashion. It makes a perfect background for spring flowers.

Braid straw is the outstanding straw used for the over - popular sailor. The sailor is becoming to granddaughter as to grandmother, and the ages in between.

The fabric hats are new and may be outshining straws this spring and summer.
